

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

April 4, 2012

No. 51/11-12

MEDIA CONTACT:

Mary M. Feder, Director of College Relations
Suffolk County Community College
(631) 451-4256
federem@sunysuffolk.edu

SUFFOLK COUNTY COMMUNITY COLLEGE HOSTS REP. ISRAEL AS HE ANNOUNCES TRAINING PROGRAM FOR RETURNING VETS TO FILL
MANUFACTURING VACANCIES

Brentwood, NY - Suffolk County Community College recently hosted Congressman Steve Israel, at its Workforce Development and Technology Center on the Michael J. Grant Campus in Brentwood. During a brief ceremony, the Congressman announced new legislation to match Post-9/11 Veterans and GI Bill recipients with community colleges for training, then connecting them with companies in need of their skills for local apprenticeships and jobs. The unemployment rate for Veterans returning from Iraq and Afghanistan is 13.1 percent, significantly higher than the national average. At the same time, manufacturing companies nationally need to fill roughly 600,000 vacancies, according to a recent Manufacturing Institute and Deloitte report.

Dr. Shaun L. McKay, President of Suffolk County Community College, commented, "We are eager to provide our returning Iraq and Afghanistan Veterans with specialized training so they can help fill vacancies in local manufacturing companies. I can't think of a better way to use our resources than to train those who have given so much for our country so they can find good jobs."

Rep. Israel said, "This is a win-win solution that will provide returning veterans from Iraq and Afghanistan, who face one of the highest unemployment rates nationwide, with a unique skill set that will lead to jobs or apprenticeships while also providing manufacturing companies with the highly-skilled employees they need to stay competitive. Community colleges, like Suffolk, have been instrumental partners when it comes to providing training and career advancement to our returning Veterans. I look forward to working with them on this program."

The Revamping the Education of our Veterans to Align Manufacturing through Partnerships with Community Colleges (REVAMP Act) would include a skills gap analysis to determine workforce needs and job vacancies that local manufacturing companies have been unable to fill. Community colleges would develop curricula and conduct targeted skills training to fill the gaps. Working with the local VA and the Department of Defense, community colleges would target Iraq- and Afghanistan-era Veterans in the region for certificate or degree programs ranging from 24-weeks to two years in the manufacturing sector identified in the skills gap analysis. At the completion of the training program, community colleges would connect vets with companies in need of their skills.

Post-9/11 Veterans who received an honorable discharge can use their GI Bill benefits, which provide financial support for education, to pay for the training. Companies that hire the veterans may also be eligible to receive a Returning Heroes Tax Credit and the Wounded Warriors Tax Credit, which was signed into law this past November to encourage companies to hire veterans.

Photo Caption: (l to r) - Congressman Steve Israel; Legislator John M. Kennedy Jr. ; Joseph Galatro; Jonathan Nunez; David Karpf; Dr. Shaun L. McKay, President of Suffolk County Community College; Mike Doherty; Anthony Mangual, Suffolk County Community College Student Trustee; John Drake; Legislator Sarah Anker; Legislator Wayne R. Horsley; Tom Ronayne, Director, Suffolk County Veterans Services Agency; Legislator Steven H. Stern.

About Suffolk County Community College

Suffolk County Community College (SCCC) is the largest community college in the State University of New York (SUNY) system, enrolling approximately 26,000 students at its three campuses in Selden, Brentwood and Riverhead. SCCC offers the Associate in Arts (A.A.), Associate in Science (A.S.), and Associate in Applied Science (A.A.S.) degrees, as well as a variety of certificate programs. Offering affordable college tuition, a highly respected Honors program, extensive extracurricular activities, championship athletic teams, and numerous transfer programs, SCCC is a first-choice college for Long Island students. Visit us online at sunysuffolk.edu.

###